

New York, Columbia University, Rare Book and Manuscript Library, Prince Paul of Yugoslavia Papers, Serbian Charter ca. 1302

Description: 1 item - Round gilt silver seal, ca. 54 mm in diameter, with a king on one side and St. Stephen (as a beardless deacon holding a censer) on the other; red silk threads through document and seal. - Originally part of the archive of the Serbian monastery of Hilandar on Mount Athos, Greece. It disappeared from the monastery archive before 1930 and reappeared in Belgrade in 1940, when it was purchased by the Museum of Prince Paul (as Serbia's national museum was then known). The Prince Paul of Yugoslavia Papers came to Columbia at varying moments between 1954 and 1981, originally from Prince Paul himself, then from his widow, Princess Olga of Greece, and most recently from his daughter, Princess Elizabeth of Yugoslavia. - Monumenta serbica spectantia historiam Serbiae, Bosnae, Ragusii, ed.
